water users, as follows:

1. That Salt Lake City and canal companies each receive 60 second-feet of water as its primary right to the waters of Utah lake and Jordan river. (After deducting 300 second-feet, which is the aggregate amount of the primary rights, from the 1,000 second-feet of water to be developed, 700 second-feet will remain to bear the expense of the improvement.)

2. That the city and canal companies determine, as soon as possible, what quantity of water, in addition to the said primary rights, each will require; the cost thereof being estimated at $16.14 per acre.

That the cost of maintenance and eration, so far as the city and canal apanies are concerned, be so apported that each of them will pay such poportion of the entire cost of operan and maintenance as the number of sond-feet which each receives will ar to the total number of second-feet elved by them all.

That application be made by each the canal companies, as such, for a contraction of water it may require in

4. That application be made by each of the canal companies, as such, for the quantity of water it may require in addition to the 60 second-feet of primary right, and that its obligation to pay the government therefor be secured by a mortgage bond on all the property and assets of the company.

As The city, being a municipal corporation, and the plan proposed for the canal companies no, being applicable to it, some other method will have to be devised that will meet its requirements and be acceptable to the government.

6. The quantity of water remaining after the requirements of the city and canal companies have been satisfied, to be allotted to arid lands situated above the existing canals, at such increased price as will, with the water taken by the city and canal companies, reimburse the government for its outlay on the project.

7. The agency through which the water for the canal companies.

The death of Mr. Sharp had not been unexpected for several days. Friday

The death of Mr. Sharp had not been to a big gully through a rich farming section and finally flooding the south central portion of the city. The waters reached within a block and a half of or surgical attendance, and was resting well late last night. was in accordance with the recommendations of the special committee of water users, as follows:

The death of Mr. Sharp had not been unexpected for several days. Friday the city hall. The damage can hardly be estimated with accuracy, but it will likely reach $13,000.

Farms Flooded.

Adjacent farms were flooded and crops laid waste, while a great gully was plowed for two miles through a series of rich farms. The greatest loss was in the waste of the water itself, which cannot be restored this season, and which formed the supply for irrigating a large area of valuable farm land.

The reservior was constructed about enlarged. The dam was of earth, and by it the water was backed up into a long ravine. It was filled by the waters of Burch creek, and near it were two other smaller reservoirs. Both of these are yet intact. It will take at least two weeks to reconstruct the dam, and by that time the waters of Burch creek will all be required for

The servoir to the city a long, irregular gully, varying from twenty to 150 feet in width, was disclosed. The three farms in the flood's path which were damaged in the greatest degree were those of C. B. Sears, who, besides having the reservoir emptied, lost about six acres of land; J. C. and Jesse Stephens had twenty acres flooded, and the board of directors of the Union Pacific road.

In 1878 he was elected to the legislature from Salt Lake county, and served several terms in both branches, during one session being speaker of the house of representatives. From 1884 to 1835

Mr. Sharp was mayor of the city. At the time of his death he was a member of the board of regents of the state.

Six acres of land; J. C. and Jesse Stephens had twenty acres flooded, and E. C. S. Brainard a similar amount, mostly seeded to oats. Sand and debris were washed over the land so that it cannot be brought under cultivation for at least another season. The bids were opened yesterday in the office of the city engineer for the resurfacing of the Twenty-fifth street paysurfacing of the Twenty-fifth street paving, also for the construction of side-walks and for sandstone curbs and gutters. The clerical force of the city engineer's office has not yet finished tabulating the bids, but it was stated last night that J. P. O'Nell was the lowest hidder on all the work excepting the paving work. On this work P. J. Moran of Salt Lake appeared to be low bidder, although there was some question whether O'Nell's bid might not be lower than Moran's on this Other bidders were H. A.
